MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY OF THE DAY.
To Sheep-farmers and the Public in general.

F. C. Calvert's Phenyline & Torchon Sheep Salve

The great reputation these specifics have enjoyed in England on account of their extraordinary success in all cases where they have been applied, has induced the proprietor to introduce them in this market on account of the immense sheep farming interest of the country. To enable sheep-farmers to obviate in future the enormous losses they sustain yearly, not only in the destruction of the Sheep, but also, as frequently happens, the loss of the entire flock. It is a powerful antiseptic, and to only asks a fair trial, feeling confident of the result. The following is a list of some of the uses to which these antiseptics may be applied—

In Sheep—To cure maggot vulnus, scab, lice, tick.

In Horses—Canker in the feet, grease, quitter, all cangerous wounds or ulcers, cracked heels, mange, &c.

Cows distemper, an full diseases of the hoofs.

For wounds or bruises resulting from accident and for all general Veterinary purposes these remedies are unequalled. They are found to be remarkably successful in the Hospitals in England for curing Cancer. Therefore when used for preserving hides, skins and bones from all vermin and insects, the parcels already packed with it in the city and Argentine have received the approval of purchasers in England who report them to be perfectly sound and sweet. The leather made from the hides is also declared to be superior in every respect.

TEA-TABLE TALK

For the last fortnight there has been none, the kettle having been entrusted for many reasons.

1st. Because the gentlemen on deck to watch profane purposes as making punch.

2nd. Because sewing machines are in vogue.

3rd. Because minded silence and private theatricals preclude a quiet tete a tete.

4th. Because there are no weddings on the tapis.

5th. Because fashions are exploded.

6th. Because the girls are out of humor with the Standard's politics.

7th. Because the fire is out, and hardly a "spark" can be found.

8th. Because the Opera Co. is gone.

9th. Because the weather is to unsettled that we can't tell how the wind blows.

10. Because we have no fair "debutantes" or "cabuleadores"

11th. Because there is really nothing to talk about at the tea-table;

12th. Because we are present for a month, until we finish Consul Hutchinson's report.

For the 12 reasons hereinbefore stated we beg our fair readers will excuse us we pledge ourselves, our heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns to pay more attention in future to this chapter.

FLORES TACTICS.

It is a great mistake, said Napoleon, to despise your enemy; and President Flores has reason to be anything but over-confident of his legions, when engaging with such an able guerilla as Venancio Flores. When we remember the large armies, making an aggregate of 16,000 men, called out to crush the germs of rebellion at Rincon Gallinas—when we see 8 filibusters march almost unopposed through the Republic, we clearly their numbers to the dimensions of a powerful force—when we read of countless manœuvres, surprises, flying alone, and skilful movements all resulting in nothing—when every week brings us intelligence of a masterly coup de main, happily without a blow lost; or else the crossing of Rio Negro made by either combatant, after the manner of hide and seek—we are forced to conclude, either that both sides have averse to fighting, in which case a battle is the next to impossible; or that the filibusters prefer hiding their lives, and Medina, Lamas, Lenguas, Pirin, Montevideo, Cibil &c, cannot overthrow them.

There are at present about 10, 000 actual troops campaigning at Flores' following hardly amounting to 1,000. But the latter are better mounted and drilled for guerilla warfare. In fact, to use a vulgar phrase, Flores has but to pluck a few blades of grass and smell them, to know the exact locality where he may be. During Oribe's warfare, we had a most formidable and humanship, with only 800 men; for the most of the movements were something like those,

We have heard numerous anecdotes of him, which remind us of Livy's description of Pumbull's exploits; although the Oriental gauchos never read of that historian or of the Carthaginian general.

On one occasion, Flores came up to a small town on the Uruguay: his forces did not exceed 200, but as evening fell, he lighted 10 or 12 fires, which made the miserable inhabitants believe he had a large army. Accordingly, next day he entered without resistance, strip of the townsfolk of everything even to their boots, and quietly left, laden with booty. He once shed blood thirsty, for notwithstanding his diabolical expression of countenance, several traits of kindness are recorded of him, and none of enquiring caprice. He is highly popular among his fellow-gauchos, being the beau ideal of a South American cavalier, equally expert at dance and lance, and fond of arms and cards, and a guitar love-ditty.

Foreign opinion, and all the peaceable, quiet, and inhabitants, are decidedly opposed to Flores, but he stands on an element of far greater weight and stability, being backed and supplied by his friends in Buenos Ayres, who sent him last week, by the steamer Cordoba, 1,000 bullocks. Hence he is enabled to pay liberally for provisions, which leads to gain him popularity; and a bounty of five gold ounces per man, to many hundreds of ragged, starving invites numbers of ragged, starving invites numbers of unpaid adventurers to enrol themselves in the ile of so-called liberators.

Government had the best chance of victory on the 14th inst., during the battle of Sarandi, when the Flores army would be unable to rally any town for the want of ammunition. Several will be tempted by the rumor of the arrival of this gipsy life, adopting à la belle étoile and scouring across the republic for mere sport, with the vain of official preferment when Flores gets supreme power. For this reason every day lost is a victory in a manner, until the change of President and of the weather; meantime, if the Government keeps the nut unbroken it is certain they will succeed in exterminating them at once, we may consider that they will strengthen the hands and weaken President Bar, who labors in earnest to settle.

Flores is certainly most be shocked at the piracy, generally received as true, that the commander of the Paris has refused to take in tow 3 boat loads of Flores' men, and refused by passengers from Uruguay, and 2 vessels sent out to tow wearing a red ribbon and badly cleared "Viva Flores."

Finally, however the Buenos Ayres intends to annex Banda Oriental, must be better practised, not to run such groundless fancies as they have been publishing through letter writers as by reason of the small, patriotic feeling exhibited by all Montevideans towards the Argentine republic, any connexion with which would perhaps soon drives both life and power.

THE LOAN.

Our colleagues have all raised a shout at a foreign loan, and some of them even have the audacity to quote the advice of General Washington to the country in support of their absurd thesis.

But we deny that General Washington ever counselled his countrymen against borrowing money abroad when the occasion presented itself very advantageously. Borrowing money abroad is the only means of liberation at that moment that enabled the United States Government hasten the legal appointment by Parliament of Pitt to the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The Republic has in an extreme to need other countries loans at present, although it possesses a vast of current money in it; the greatest possible abundance, and sufficient to buy all the land from Tendil to Cape del Fuego, if it could be sold; but not enough of money to pay the expenses of one or two campaigns.

Certainly this great evil we have happened upon the public the great necessity of introducing specie or European value into the country, by means of loans, such as the learned doctor who has recommended the 500,000 in the legislature, look upon lightly gold as a matter of no effect. Even, which, if allowed to enter, will eventually bring upon us the bad influence of Mexico.

We have received the following communication from an English economist of the highest standing, who has studied the matter profoundly, and we glad to make room for ideas so in accordance with our own:—

Supposing that the law to reduce the currency, which has just been wrote in the Chamber of Deputies, be carried into effect, and that it is a success, as we as regards leaving the Bank capital in paper money—for the only one proposed by this law for the destruction just will only make paper money—accepting the present gold capital of the bank, and that is limited the issue of my doubloons with the proceeds of the public lands and additional duties; and that is not out of the question, as doubloons sufficient do not exist, in the country.

We will allow that the balance of the Bank in 1856 stood thus:

	Dols.	Ounces.
Capital of the Bank in notes secured by treasure and funds received from public lands and additional capital ...	240,000,000	120,000
Deposits of all kinds ...	300,000,000	200,000
	540,000,000	320,000
Cr.
Bills discounted, mortgages, advances to railways and public funds, &c. ...	440,000,000	220,000
Cash in hand ...	100,000,000	80,000
	540,000,000	300,000

The law says the Bank are to pay 1 ounce for every $384 that are presented. This would be circulating in the market $240,000,000 if one third was presented the Bank would not be able to pay.

It is, therefore, clear that the law would be useless unless gold to brought to the Bank by some means or other. Gold will not a one into this country unless our imports to it from other countries, which at present are the country.

The only means to obtain the necessary gold into the place is a loan, and from the discussion on the subject it was clear the majority of the House of Deputies were of that opinion—that is, for a loan of one kind or other. Some members, it was evident that the Bank should, if they thought necessary, make a loan, without limit, at 12 p. $ per annum, and borrowed from whom they could. Others thought proposals were received, and the country left with a useless and absurd law.

The arguments in opposition to the Government loan were that the country would be in danger of war with a foreign Government, and the example of Chile was given. What absurd groundless fancies they have been to obtain made up their minds to be dishonest, and not pay the interest or principal bond to the creditor.

The Minister of Finance stated that only about $6 00 of the last loan ever reached the Government chest. What then became of the rest? We never paid in any thing, and the Government give their bonds without value received?

OUR FINANCES.

We believe it to be an admitted fact that Mr. Wilkins Micawber never visited Buenos Ayres. Micawber was a man of profound knowledge, his advice to David Copperfield the younger, proves it. Annal income £20, annual expenditure £19 19s. 6d, result, happiness: annual income £20, annual expenditure £20 0s. 6d, result, misery.

In the same manner of the philosophy Micawber were as true of nations as of individuals, the present condition of Buenos Ayres and the whole Argentine Republic would be lamentable indeed. In the River Plate, civilization and debt seem to gallop in hand and hand we hear of one we may infer the other—after the last revolution, when Rosas beheld a gallows, thanked heaven for the sight, as he knew that he was in a Christian country.

Figures, by reading, and by two subalterns of finance who are to receipt of fat salaries consider that it is important to the public with the monthly statement from their offices. Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to know," and no man in the Argentine Republic knows what the public expenses are, represented by thousands of ounces or millions of paper dollars.

Nothing can be a better type of the present financial position of the Republic than the native estimates of any of these provinces. He owns a whole city of a country, called an estancia, yet never has a dollar in his pocket possesses thousands and tens of thousands of horned cattle, yet milk and butter are luxuries unknown in his house; his horses and mares are as numerous as the Government troops, yet his boots of leather; he may be celebrity as, his credit is limited to the neighbouring country town or adjacent saladeria, he has a whole legion of paisanos not one of whom respect him as a gentleman, he may him as an employer, when required to do anything which borders on hard work.

Such is the Argentine Republic this day, owner of thousands of square leagues, but like the estanciero, without a copper in the treasury, possessed immense resources, yet never turned them to the slightest advantage. Every day older and every day worse, spending more than it receives, and consequently getting deeper and deeper in debt. The Micawber eloquence is the secret of our present exiled position. The Argentine nation won't live within its means, and as it cannot raise money abroad, it resorts to paper emissions of bonds, dollars, stamps, bills, rials, and all the rest of the worthless trash that will raise "the wind." The Government will not even publish its accounts. We question any man in the country to get a peep into the treasury accounts, as David Copperfield would not be found wanting.

WESTWARD HO!

Irish shopkeepers are prime-struck. Some say always are gone too numerous, others that land is too Flores and dear, while it is quite apparent to all, that as cheap double every 3 years we must extend our pasture-farms in equal ratio, or ever stock our present limited area, to the great prejudice of both land and sheep. Already several estancieros have moved out to Junin, Rojas, and Arroyo del Medio, where good camps abound, and no danger is to be feared, if the frontier be well guarded. It is, however, strange that Brandsh, which is nearer this port, and posses even superior pastures, is also regretten by our migratory country men.

Colonel Vedia who is now in command of the Western frontier, is most deficient officer, very frim by to his duties, and anxious to exert himself to ensure and favorite centre of sheep-husbandry. For this purpose he has requested for the frontier 10 leagues further out, on the Lagunas. In the intermediate territory there are upwards of camps held by right of Estancias, which are valued at from 30 to 50 thousand $ apiece. Here Mr. James Kivavagh, D. Ambrosio Lezica, Mr. Ormaey, and numerous others have large estancias, in every way adapted for sheep. Water is found 4 feet below the surface, preventing all fear of drought Brandsh is only 40 leagues W. of Buenos Ayres, as the bird flies.

Instead of paying such fabulous prices as 11½ 2 millions per league in the neighbourhood of Buenos Ayres, Carey, Lobos &c. instead of burying you sell in the backwoods of Entre Rios, exposing such life among Oriental Indians, leaving the Indians of Pampas and Santa Fe—better far to buy the squatter's right, for 30,0003 apiece to a league of camp at Brago to. Why is the land happy to locate? Because to accommodate any information about this new settlement, which promises to confer a great boon on our country by forming a new source of field for their labors, in a rising cost.

STARTLING PROOF OF AN ORANGE REACTION.

Our colleagues with their usual veracity have been making all sorts of the bills, see respecting the conduct of the Admiral and the most consistent conduct steamer Pampero in engaging up the Uruguay, some filibuster whale boat, &c. &c. We must consider the conduct of this small bills beneath the notality Sir Richard Hopkins of Montevideo, who (we read in El Pais) been publicly seen in open company with Don Pantaleon, and Salaberry and his men.

The following was his report. "There is no doubt the highest duties to the country after duty disembarked, the Company accorded the river as far as Negro, only bringing with it a large number of dog being the property of the will be all recovered by the Government."

Sir Hughes was requested to advise the British Minister of this, and replied that, at the date, Mr Lettsom must have received the whole particulars as he was writing to him on the moment, giving full particulars.

Coming events cast their shadows before: three Rosas revolution will yet be carried out pistol down, light up Lamas in the River Plate, which queer the sore will be able to put out.

LATEST FROM THE PAMPAS.

Flores has find across the Rio Negro Canabilla and Canabilla have join northwards.

200 workmen are wanted for Urquiza Railway.

The Oregonian is still running.

It is rumoured that Bandos, has arrived.

THE ORIENTAL CRUISERS.

We learn, on undoubted authority, that Flores, finding it impossible to get the people to join him, in what he calls the cause of liberty, has got hundreds to pay him the country, remodelling a large white flag, with a red cross, telling the people that if they wish to save their religion they must join him.

The Oriental Government has called the attention of the Nuncio to this, who left for Montevideo yesterday.

PAUNEROS DIFFICULTIES.

If there is an officer in the Argentine service deserving of praise, we certainly say it is General Paunero, he, and he alone it was, who put down the Chanco rebellion, and restored tranquility to Cordova. Yet notwithstanding all his services, we perceive that he comes in for unmerited abuse in the "National," of Friday evening. We name, it appears, is too hard to call this courageous soldier. It was suggested in a sort of chorus to call to his relief against him for upsetting Posse, in dragging the butchery at La Plata. Alsina's in the treasonable third of August 29th. GENERAL LEE'S TACTICS

The country which the Confederates have entered, and partly overrun, consists of a number of beautiful and fertile valleys, rich in corn, cattle, hors s, and every kind of supplies, and so situated from each other by seven or eight ranges of hills, in some places rising to the height of mountains, which hills are each with strong military positions. The breadth of this district, from north to south is from fifty to sixty miles, and its length, from east to west, is from two hundred to three hundred miles. At the present season of the year every one of the valleys of this district is covered with ripe corn, and affords the means of subsistence to an invading army. It is not at all likely that General Lee, who is a gentleman and a man of high intelligence will allow this country, hostile as it is, to be wantonly laid waste by the will. no doubt, authorise his army to take whatever they require for the use of subsistence, and to pay for it in Confederate paper money, just as the Federals have taken whatever they wanted in Virginia, paying for it in Federal paper money. There is no reason whatever why the Confederates should not hold a great part of the Federal territory for a year or two, should not make it the seat of war for some months to come, for they have an easy access into southern Pennsylvania from the northern parts of Virginia and Maryland; and the Federals have no advantage in this respect from navigable rivers or from railways.

The four great lines of communication through this country from Washington to the West, are, Ohio Railroad, to Pittsburg, Parkersburg, and other places on the river Ohio consist of the Ohio Railway, the Ohio and Parkersburg, the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, the great Canal and Road from Washington to Pittsburg, and the Central railway of Pennsylvania, which runs from Philadelphia to Harrisburg to Pittsburg, and the Ohio. The lines of roads, namely, the Baltimore and Ohio Railway, runs along the northern border of Virginia and Maryland, and must by this time be in the hands of the Confederates from Harper's Ferry to the River Ohio at Parkersburg and Wheeling. The Ohio and Chesapeake Canal runs nearly parallel to the railway, and must also be in the hands of the Confederates. The great National Road runs a few miles north of the canal and railway, and intersects the whole of the country now occupied by the Confederates. The Central Railway of Pennsylvania runs along the valley of the Susquehanna, and is also in the hands of the country occupied by the Confederates, connecting Philadelphia with Harrisburg, and Harrisburg with Pittsburg. This railway is carried across almost immediately at right angles, having down from the seven or eight ranges of the mountains of the Alleghany to the south and south of the Susquehanna, and as all these bridges are formed of wood, they may be burnt down or otherwise destroyed in a few hours. With the destruction of these bridges it is feared Government will lose all direct communication from Washington and Philadelphia to the Western States.

ON THE PROSPECTS OF COTTON CULTIVATION IN THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

By Thomas J. Hutchinson, F.R.G.S. &c, H.B.M.'s Consul at Rosario.

Going upwards through the Salado valley to Tucuman, I find all through this province a rich soil like that of a well-mantained garden. Many of the Chaco and the other provinces, is uninhabited and uncultivated, although very little is common on Government property, the greater part having been purchased from the Government, or given in free grants in times gone by, therefore indebted to the present owners from their forefathers. I believe there is little or no cotton cultivated in this province. I saw, however, a few thousand plants of it on the estancia of Senor Don José Frias, at Sevilla Redondo, near the capital.

The cost of workmen's labour, as well as the expense and tediousness of transport by bullock cart, must for a long time prove a double impediment to this province becoming a cotton growing location. The hire of labourers here is from seven to eight Bolivian dollars [viz., from 21s. to 24s.] per month, together with food. Employers must likewise suffer much from the existence of an arrangement, by which it is indispensable to pay beforehand two months' wages. Should the establishment of this rule that no peon will take the higher wage of ten or twelve dollars per month unless he gets the advance. Consequently the employer is at the mercy of the employed; for the latter, after receiving his two months' wages, without doing a stroke of work, may, as he often does, mount a horse, and run away to a neighbouring province. Here he is safe from arrest or punishment, for there is never no extradition treaty on the subject.

Cotton in Tucuman, of the same quality as accompanies this paper, is sold there for three reals for about 1s. 2d.) per pound or in the seed. When the seed is picked out—the only means they have of cleaning it—the staple is sold at the enormous price of 12 reals, or nearly 5s per pounds. Supposing cotton were cultivated, or even grew naturally, in a sufficiently large quantity for foreign exportation from Tucuman, the freightage from there to Rosario by the present mode of bullock cart conveyance, at the established charge of nine reals per arroba, would amount to 42 1/2 reals for every 25 or 400lb. Even to the nearest river port in the province of Santiago, through which the railroad runs—for no part of Tucuman approaches to within twenty leagues of that river—the carriage expense would be enormous.

In Corrobon the cotton formerly cultivated in the adjoining province of Catamarca was sold here up to 12 reals for from 7 to 8 reals for from 2s 10d to 3s per arroba. The article from this latter province, forwarded to Liverpool by Messrs. Hughes, of Montevideo, I believe to have been the original specimen reported to have come from the Salado valley. Mr. Gordon, H.B.M.'s Vice-Consul at Cordoba, wrote to me last year—"In former times the price of cotton ranged from 20 to 40 reals (7s 6d to 15s) per arroba; but the small quantity of it now produced—for its culture has been much suppressed by the introduction of British manufactured goods—is sold at double that price."

ON 'CHANGE,

August 29.

Ounces opened to-day at 43d, and run up with almost panic like speed to 44 1/2 1/4. The bears began to take fright, and came out manfully to the rescue; 14,000 ounces were at once thrown on the market, and from 44 1/2 doubtlessn sunk back to the opening price 43d. The fluctuations in the price of ounces to-day were, we may almost say unprecedented, and but the bulls have a little stronger, they would have taken it completely out of the power of the bears to lower the market, but at two o'clock their triumph was complete, and ounces closed apparently weak.

The Pampas business has proved a regular equal on the Bolsa, and whose source say that in fact a regular "landango" if our Foreign Minister is not sent about his business.

On 'Change to-day it was noised that there is a regular split in the National Cabinet, the President and his prime minister being very haughty, and at the simplest possibleness in certain quarters.

The statement of Mr Richd Hughes, a respectable English merchant, respecting the carriage of the cotton of the Pampero, was shown on the Bolsa, and served to unveil a bit of the nature of Argentine mentality. Public confidence is greatly disturbed and very one complains of the fluctuations I quote as read by the Chinese scream principle at some of our lending pub lishers.

117—PASEO DE JULIO—117;
Buenos Aires.
JAMES SAUNDERS begs to announce to his public that he entered into Partnership with ALBERT KEYSER, and that the business is henceforth to be conducted by the Thomas Moore, and family in the above premises.
Having a large and powerful machine wood screwing machine, of the most approved description, and of a superior kind, he is now prepared to execute orders for screws of any description, from a pump screw up to that for a steam engine, simple and compound, with despatch and moderate charges. Having also had many years experience in all kinds of machinery, combined with the above specialty, he trusts to merit a share of the public patronage.
The great store of patterns which he has enjoyed since commencing business in Buenos Ayres, he can give his friends of promptness and fidelity in the execution of their orders which he trusts will be his claim for his future patronage as active and as he has received therefrom while with others but a short "probation."
